A Message from the VP for Convention Planning and Program

Convention planning has wrapped! Mark the dates of April 1-4, 2020, on your calendars. You will definitely want to attend the 2020 PSHA Convention in Pittsburgh at the Sheraton Pittsburgh Hotel at Station Square! The Convention Committee is proud to share that our inspiration for the Convention began with a quote from Fred Rogers, “Life is service.” The Committee used this quote to develop the Convention theme – It starts with us – and the Convention graphic pays tribute to Fred Rogers and his city of Pittsburgh.

The Convention Committee has undoubtedly secured a variety of high-quality presentations. There will be three-hour short courses, 90-minute seminars and 60-minute presentations. There will be morning and afternoon poster sessions on Thursday, a meritorious student poster session on Friday and technical sessions on Friday and Saturday. For those of you who wish to start your Convention experience a little early, the Wednesday evening Town Hall and Professional Roundtable Discussions are worth considering. All in all, you will have the chance to earn lots of continuing education credits in Pittsburgh this spring!

Most of the presenters will be incorporating functional information presentations and posters as possible. What a variety of topics!

In addition, the committee planned sessions applicable to all members including ethics (Paula Leslie) and clinical supervision (Cheryl Messick). Some invited sessions also capitalize on securing related professionals to share expertise including Jonas Johnson (interprofessional teams), Mamta Bhatnagar (palliative care) and Regina Harbourne (pediatric cognitive and motor development). And for audiologists, K. Todd Houston, Michelle Parfitt, Deborrah Johnston and Mary Lofreso will present on family-centered intervention via telepractice.

I am pleased to announce that once again we had a huge response to the call for papers. There was not enough room for every submission, so we modified session formats to schedule as many presentations and posters as possible. What a variety of topics! Most of the presenters will be incorporating functional information so you can return to work and apply what you learned. It starts with us indeed! Look for more information on the PSHA website, www.psha.org. I am looking forward to seeing you at the 2020 Convention.

Student Reception and Networking Night
Sponsored by EBS Healthcare
Thursday, April 2, 7:00 pm – 8:30 pm
Please join us to network with fellow students, alumni and professors of universities across the state at the Student Reception and Networking Night! Come get your questions about PSHA or the field answered while practicing your networking skills. Looking forward to meeting you all!

Student Drive: The Education Partnership

The Education Partnership, located in Pittsburgh, provides school supplies to local underprivileged schools to promote participation and engagement in the classroom. “Our vision is for a community that is invested in meeting the needs of local students and their teachers. Students helping students, teachers helping teachers, communities helping schools.” This year, PSHA is asking that each Pennsylvania university NSSLHA chapter host a school supply/book drive for The Education Partnership to support their cause and promote literacy. Chapters may also raise money to be donated to The Education Partnership. All donations should be brought to the Student Reception at the PSHA Convention. The university that donates the greatest number of items will be recognized at the Student Reception! More information regarding specific desired supplies will be sent via email to NSSLHA presidents!

Wednesday, April 1, 7:30 pm – 8:00 pm
